

Johnny Can Spell Start-Up Training is offered in three formats.

1. BLENDED: Johnny Can Spell Start-up Training includes a one-day workshop followed by on-line sessions.

This venue can be scheduled by a district or campus. Training begins with a one-day workshop. The workshop is followed by the online portion with 16 sessions, each session ranging 45 to 90 minutes participant time. Six online appendices contain further background and extensions of the face-to-face workshop day. Course time is estimated as 24 clock hours.

2. FLIPPED: Johnny Can Spell Start-Up Training includes online sessions followed by LIVE onsite inservice day(s).

This venue is scheduled by a district or campus and includes onsite inservice days, to be scheduled after implementation has begun. The online portion has 22 sessions, each ranging 45 to 90 minutes participant time. Course time is estimated as 30 clock hours.

3. ONLINE: Johnny Can Spell Start-up Training includes online sessions only.

This venue can be setup by group or by individual enrollment/purchase. A credit card or purchase order can be used. The online training has 22 sessions, each session ranging 45 to 90 minutes participant time. Course time is estimated as 30 clock hours.

DESCRIPTION of the online training:

There are a variety of video formats including picture-in-a-picture to simulate classroom instruction. Video viewing times range from a couple minutes to 10 minutes. A few videos are in excess of 10 minutes.

Access to online sessions is scheduled for a sixteen-week window but can be customized.

Video content includes reading research, rationale, what to do/what not to do, simulated models of instructional routines.

In addition to videos, there are printable notes, resources, and links to online resources.

A campus facilitator works with NINE Enterprises to facilitate the on-going work at the school level.

Participants' online work is monitored—tracked and scored—for accountability by NINE Enterprises and every week a Work Log is sent to the campus facilitator.

Each online session ends with an “activity” that requires a response from the participant. Participants will receive personal feedback from NINE Enterprises via email for their Reflect & Write responses; this email will be CC-ed or BCC-ed to the campus facilitator to build a solid learning loop.

Four popular follow-up options for Johnny Can Spell

1. A Face-to-Face Workshop Day

After a school has completed the JCSpell Start-Up Training and begun implementation, they can schedule a workshop day to revisit critical components and fine-tune instruction, management, and progress monitoring.

2. OnLine Touch-Point Modules

After a school has completed the JCSpell Start-Up Training, they can subscribe to online support modules that guide teachers through the first weeks of implementation. These sessions are grade specific and complimentary.

3. JCSpell In-Service Day

After a school has completed the JCSpell Start-Up Training, they can schedule an In-Service Day to focus on moving implementation forward through classroom observations and modeling with debriefing sessions. It is scheduled on a school day, anytime during the year. It is campus specific. Substitutes and/or creative scheduling allow teachers to be free from classroom duties during their grade specific times.

In-Service Days are very popular with teachers because they are “where the rubber meets the road” days. They are great follow-through opportunities in the first year of implementation. And they are great “let’s revisit, let’s refresh, let’s all get on the same page” kind of days after schools have implemented for a couple years.

4. JCSpell Online Review

After a school has completed the JCSpell Start-Up Training, they can contract for additional access to the online review — access to the initial start-up training online at a reduced price.

Other options include creative use of today’s communication, such as phone / internet conferencing, Skype, Q & A sessions via email and social media.
