

Crafting sentences can be challenging--even for good writers. But . . . with explicit grammar instruction and guided opportunities to use their learning daily at sentence level writing, students can develop essential skills. And with these essential skills, students can purposefully craft their writing, lifting it to a higher level.

In Bridging Grammar to Writing, Alice Nine shares an instructional routine she developed and used daily with her students--a four-part routine she calls Tactical Sentence Instruction (TSI).

TSI is a multi-faceted instructional routine that is easily incorporated at any grade level daily to . . .

- Practice the use of written conventions
- Purposefully use grammar knowledge during writing and reading
- Learn to analyze the structure of a sentence
- Learn the academic vocabulary of writers
- Develop editing and revision skills
- Master the art of crafting sentences
... all with a single sentence each day.

The workshop is divided into four sessions

1. Writing and Editing
2. Mapping and Parsing
3. Revising
4. Recasting

Each session includes how-to webinar style videos and in-the-classroom student-facing videos.

Teachers report . . .

They stream videos from this workshop into their classrooms to launch the TSI routine.
